Milabs are legitimate alien abductees who are trained by elements of the deep black military to perform specific tasks. Some milabs have developed a dissociative ability because of childhood abuse or some other trauma. This dissociative ability is exploited by the milab controllers oftentimes in horrible and sadistic ways. Coercive manipulative techniques such as Behavior Modification and Mind Control are utilized on milabs to prepare them for use by their military controllers. Milabs can be used in a variety of ways. Milabs can be divided into various categories based on the manner in which they are used. Regardless of the category milabs are in, they can all be brought together for mass examinations, inoculations, training and for other reasons when necessary.

The term "Milab" was first coined by Austrian researcher Dr. Helmut Lammer. Unfortunately Dr. Lammer seems to think that every eyewitness report of an alien by a milab is the result of government mind control. This is very much like putting the ox before the cart. What came first? Aliens or government mind control ops? I doubt if Dr. Lammer has spent any amount of time researching alien abductions. His pre-conceived bias against the reality of alien abductions precludes any possibility of objective research into the subject. There are some "researchers" who insist that all eyewitness reports of aliens are the result of government mind control and then there are the debunkers from the False Memory Syndrome who insist that there is no such thing as mind control, despite the voluminous documentation obtained from the government. To cover all their bases, government mind controllers have shown fake aliens to Project Monarch type mind control survivors and the latter have dutifully reported these bogus encounters in books they have written.

What are Milabs?

In all likelihood milabs have some kind of genetic marker that identifies them as legitimate alien abductees. This notion is buttressed by the fact that alien abductees who have served in the armed forces have described mind control, medical experimentation and other coercive measures perpetrated upon them during their stints in the military.

They have also described being utilized in covert operations while in a mind controlled state. Some of them have been shown advanced technology and have witnessed non-human life forms in underground and above ground installations.

Externally imposed amnesia and selective memory erasure utilizing narco-hypnosis and other methods have been applied to these active duty military abductees by their controllers to make them forget the experiences. Sometimes they are treated by psychologist during their stint in the military. Even after their stint in the military is over, some milabs may be treated by military doctors and military psychologists as Veterans Administration outpatients. This is done to ensure the milab does not recover any memories. In the event they do, they can be quickly manipulated to forget the experiences. Many of these milabs continue to be used in deep black ops long after their service in the military has ended. On the other hand, there are those milabs who have never served a day in the military but are kept under constant monitoring and surveillance just the same. Some civilian milabs have been conditioned by their military controllers to train for and obtain employment in occupations that require a high degree of physical conditioning and knowledge of medicine, field craft and fire science.

This prepares them for some of the physical hardships they will undergo during milab training and the possible life or death scenarios they may find themselves in as milab operatives. Many milabs have been shown futuristic visions of a coming apocalypse or cataclysmic series of events on the surface. These possible futuristic events run the gamut from civil unrest, all out urban warfare involving foreign troops, germ warfare, natural disasters, and missile attacks. Escape and evasion training is routinely given to many milabs. Leadership training and group survival skills are also taught to milabs with an emphasis on decision making under duress. Later in this treatise I will elaborate on how the different occupations and personal attributes of milabs will be exploited by their military controllers. For example, those with a scientific or medical background may find themselves doing similar work in an underground facility in an alter personality under mind control. On the other hand, there are those milabs who are not switched into an alter personality mode during their experiences and retain fully conscious awareness.

This is more commonly reported when a milab undergoes “routine” experiences such as medical exams. It sometimes suits the milab controllers to allow their wards some degree of waking consciousness to scare them if nothing else. I know of one female milab who was being punished for being uncooperative. She was injected with a drug that completely immobilized her and yet allowed her to retain full waking consciousness. As she lay with her eyes closed on a medical exam table, the scientist told her that if she didn’t start cooperating, they could and would leave her in this permanent state of paralysis. It is what I call the “Silent Scream” technique. The mere thought of being left permanently in that condition terrifies most milabs into cooperating with the milab controllers. In this case, the female milab was refusing to give a one hundred per cent effort during her military style training.

One of the means used to “extract” milabs from their homes is for a controller to call them on the telephone at night and say a phrase or a series of numbers the moment the milab answers the phone. The phone call is sometimes timed to catch the milab when he or she is in bed and wearing night clothes. Upon hearing the phrase or the number sequence, the milab “switches” into an alter state and hangs up the phone. He or she then walks outdoors in bare feet and night clothes. Waiting outside is a white military van. The milab automatically walks to the rear of the van. Milab handlers get out of the van and open up the rear doors. The milab is placed inside the van and the van drives away.

After one such abduction, the kidnapped milab noticed that the van was starting to travel on a downhill gradient. It was not a steep incline but steep enough for the milab to notice. The moment this particular milab entered the rear of the van, a woman in a nurse’s uniform said to her “Hi Jean.” Now in her normal state of consciousness, Jean responded “You people again?!! What the hell do you want this time?” The van was driven down this slight downhill gradient for some time until the van stopped and the rear doors were opened whereupon Jean found herself in an underground facility.

(“Jean” is a pseudonym. Jean is the same woman known as “D” in David Icke’s “Children of the Matrix” book. “D” has had numerous milab experiences at China Lake and George Air Force Base in the Southern California high desert. The anonymous writer who described some of “D’s” experiences in the Children of the Matrix was me. That description of D’s experiences with reptilians, greys and the military was supposed to be part of a private e-mail correspondence between myself and another American researcher! Then it wound up on the Reptilian Archives of David Icke’s website. I am personal friends with “Jean/D” and she hates it when people use her info without asking her. So “D,” if you’re reading this, my apologies.)

Military controllers have been known to boldly walk up to the house during daylight hours when the husband has already left for work, and utilize a “black box” that renders all the occupants of the household including any dogs or cats, unconscious. The targeted milab is often unaffected by the emissions of this black box and is then taken away to a military facility. This tactic has been utilized in remote or sparsely populated areas. Other devices used to subdue milabs within their homes include an aerosol can that emits a spray that leaves a milab listless and unable to resist. This aerosol spray has been described as having a “citrus-like” odor. Electric prods have also been utilized to subdue milabs prior to kidnapping them and taking them away to a military facility.

Hostile Interrogations and Torture of Milabs

Milabs are sometimes brought to a military facility, the locations of which are oftentimes underground, and are subjected to hostile interrogations and outright torture. The “interrogations” are really not interrogations at all. Usually the milab, very often a female milab, is asked the same question over and over. It is a question that the milab cannot answer because she doesn’t know the answer. The female milab may be injected with a drug or she may have a drug introduced into her system by intravenous drip. The real purpose behind the interrogation is to provide her captors with an excuse to torture her. She may be made to sit on a chair with her arms tied to the back of the chair and her ankles tied to the legs of the chair. The interrogators may use hand-held devices that give her a powerful electric shock. They may shock her quite close to her heart. After they strip her of her clothing they may even shove the device up her vagina and shock her from within her body. The female milab may also be suspended from the ceiling, hanging either by her arms or her feet. During this entire ordeal she will receive numerous slaps, punches and kicks from her captors.

I have known of cases where the woman thus suspended and tortured suffered damage to the cervical area of her neck and had her shoulder dislocated. During these torture sessions, the female milab may lose consciousness several times. The military may gang rape the woman. Sometimes the military rapists are mind controlled themselves, sometimes they are not. The higher ranking officers in the room may not be mind controlled but the interrogator may be under mind control. If any of the military men cannot attain an erection during the gang rape phase, they are removed from the room and may themselves be subject to beatings and electric shocks. The woman may be raped by dozens of men in this fashion in a sadistic sexual onslaught that may last for hours. Sometimes the woman may completely dissociate during this traumatic ordeal. She may leave her body and float above the other people in the room in her astral state and watch what the military is doing to her body.

Some of the higher ranking officers may wear uniforms that include the jackets and ribbons. Some of the enlisted personnel may wear "B.D.U.s" or Battle Dress Utilities. Some of the military personnel especially those doing the raping may start off wearing civilian clothes. Based on the descriptions most often given by the female milabs, the military rapists are most likely enlisted personnel. This is based on their generally youthful appearance. One or more branches of the service may be represented within these torture rooms. Some officers may be with the Army while some others may be with the Navy or Air Force. Sometimes all the personnel involved are from only one branch of the service.

The real purpose behind all this sadistic torture, as demented as it sounds, is to "splinter the splinters" i.e. fragment the female milab's already dissociated and fragmented mind. This allows the military controllers to do the following: store information in a particular compartment in her mind; extract information from a particular compartment in her mind; utilize her in astral and remote viewing ops at a deeper psychic level; and ensure the milab forgets the whole traumatic experience.

The military feel that the female milab's psi abilities will be at their peak only after she has endured this kind of torture. I am somewhat dubious of this demented “reasoning.” From the short-term standpoint the female milabs thus abused may indeed have higher than normal psi abilities, but in the long term the female milabs may be more uncooperative. The female milabs I have spoken to that have endured such experiences express nothing but contempt and hatred for their controllers, whereas in the past they may have been more cooperative. There are many female milabs that would gladly volunteer and work for the milab controllers in order to avoid the torture I’ve just described. Oftentimes the female milab being tortured is told that her children or other family members may be killed or similarly tortured if she refuses to answer the questions given to her. Sometimes the military controllers will abduct and torture close family members of the female milab to let her know that they are serious and not to be trifled with. You can imagine how the female milab feels after one of her children reports having a bad dream of being beaten and tortured by military personnel. Especially in light of what had happened to her.

By abusing and torturing female milabs in this fashion, the military accomplishes two inter-related goals: First, the female milab is terrified beyond belief and her psyche is fragmented even more than it was in the past thus enabling her controllers to utilize her psychic abilities when they are presumably at their peak; Second, the systematic abuse meted out to the female milabs provides “training” for military personnel and conditions them to behave in this fashion without any compunctions or guilt whatsoever. Some military men are not cut out for this kind of work and may be removed from this program if they cannot torture or rape these women.

Other forms of torture meted out to female milabs involves restraining them in a chair and prying their eyelids open with a mechanical device. This device then shines a painfully bright light into their eyes. Oftentimes a symbol is flashed repeatedly into the open eyes of the female milab. Both male and female milabs may be “beamed” with an electromagnetic weapon to inflict pain. During the sleep state, certain electromagnetic frequencies infuse images into the milab’s mind. Little black balls that fly around the household and have been seen to enter the heads of milabs are another form of remote control. Male milabs have been known to become angry and physically abusive the moment one of these black balls enters their heads. According to female milabs who are the spouses or the girlfriends of the males thus manipulated, these black balls are military in origin. They are not an ET device.

Astral Operators

Milabs, due to their alien manipulated DNA, have innate parapsychical abilities. These parapsychical abilities, in conjunction with conditioned behavioral responses and in some cases a dissociative ability, are exploited in a variety of ways by the military controllers. Milabs can be utilized as “multi-task platforms.” Some milabs are “astral operators” that can be instantaneously sent to any part of the world to report back Intelligence to their controllers in “real time.” The controllers can speak to the milab from the military installation and the milab can verbally report what their astral “eyes” are observing at a distant location. Astral operators do not have the inherent limitations of overhead imagery satellites.

It’s possible that their astral bodies may be transported to targets via the Global Positioning System (GPS) or some variant thereof. It is not unusual to have targeting systems “piggy backed” onto the GPS. It is certainly within the technological capability of the deep black military to initiate an out-of-body experience within a milab and then “lock on” to the astral operator’s unique electromagnetic signature and send the astral operator anywhere in the world above or below ground. I am basing this supposition on anecdotal testimony provided by milabs who have been utilized as astral operators in conjunction with the known capabilities of targeting satellites.

It is a documented fact that the CIA and other intelligence agencies have utilized electromagnetic frequencies upon unwitting and unwilling subjects in mind control projects. Specific electromagnetic frequencies directed upon human beings can bring about certain predictable results. These predictable results run the gamut from nervous anxiety, the extremes of emotions, unconsciousness, hallucinations, nausea, and numerous other reactions. These predictable neurological and physiological responses are the desired outcome and form the basis for so-called “Non Lethal Weapons” especially those described as “Active Denial” weapons. Active Denial weapons are electromagnetic in nature and are designed to create extreme discomfort within individually targeted people if they stray into areas deemed off-limits. These weapons are also effective for “crowd dispersal.”

The bottom line is that Out-of-Body Experiences (OBEs) can be externally triggered by utilizing certain electromagnetic frequencies upon a human being. Aliens frequently use this technique upon abductees during certain phases of the Aliens long-term involvement with a given abductee.

Former military remote viewer Joe McMoneagle has stated that intelligence derived from remote viewing without the benefit of predetermined protocols is worthless. Tell it to the military controllers who utilize astral operators in the fashion described above. The controllers have absolutely no moral qualms about utilizing milabs in any way they deem fit. As far as they are concerned the end justifies the means.

Milabs can be used in a more “traditional” remote viewing fashion. They can be made to recline on a padded chair or lay flat on their back. A military controller can then guide them through the remote viewing process. One female milab has described feeling as if she is physically at the location where her controllers had sent her.

She found herself in an underground tunnel system quite close to a number of people. From her description of these people they seemed to be the remnants of the Taliban and/or Al-Qaeda in Afghanistan. Her controllers had to reassure her that the people at the target location could not see her. She positioned herself quite close to them and was able to give precise intel to her controllers. The people were subsequently killed with earth-penetrating ordnance delivered by strike aircraft. The female milab witnessed the explosion but did not feel the blast or suffer any ill effects whatsoever. This process was repeated a couple of more times with other groups of people that were found within the tunnels.

I know of a case where a reptilian had sexually assaulted a female milab and thus activated the kundalini energy of the woman. No sooner had the reptilian left than the military instantaneously brought the woman via some hi-tech means, to their underground installation. The military controllers then tasked the female milab with an astral op. Responding to the suggestions and encouragement of her controllers, the milab (perhaps with the help of the aforementioned technology) sent her astral body to the Persian Gulf region to observe several people who had gathered together at a private meeting. She then verbally reported her perceptions to her controllers.

This remote viewing/astral op session took place in an office within the installation. The woman was sitting in a reclined position on an adjustable padded chair. After exiting her physical body, she found her astral self in a conference room somewhere in the Persian Gulf Region. There were a number of individuals seated around a conference table. She was supposed to observe what was going on and describe what she was seeing. She tried to bring back a physical object that she had been briefed about but was unable to do so. After the astral op she was shown photographs and identified some of the people at the conference.

In this incident the military had either colluded with the reptilian or became aware of the reptilian's appearance in the woman's bedroom. The military has sensors that indicate when an electromagnetic disturbance or event has occurred that is indicative of a reptilian manifestation. Again, genetic markers would likely have identified the woman as a person having reptilian encounters. Reptilians and dracs (winged gargoyle species) tend to follow certain bloodlines. Other genetic markers would have identified her as someone with latent parapsychical abilities. She would already have been under close surveillance as a milab. The military would have known that the likely outcome of such an encounter would be a reptilian sexual assault on the woman. Moreover, the military controllers know that a predictable by-product of such a reptilian sexual encounter would be enhanced astral and psychic abilities on the part of the woman for a short period of time.

From the military's standpoint, this would be the ideal time to exploit the woman's psychic abilities. (This is similar to the human tantric magickal practice of repetitively bringing the woman to the point of orgasm but stopping before climax. This tends to amplify the woman's psi abilities.)

As far as I'm concerned remote viewing ops like those described in books by former military remote viewers are still "surface level stuff." The activities and methods they describe are not the be all and end all of remote viewing ops and are not even close to the level of classification and security one would find in remote viewing and astral ops that milabs are compelled to undergo for their military controllers.

Astral operators can also be aided by their ability to see "grid lines." The military controllers can somehow superimpose these grid lines into the psychic field of vision of the astral operator. When they are hovering over a target area in their astral body they can look down upon the terrain below and provide real time feedback to their military controller utilizing coded designations to identify particular locations in the grid.

The astral operator can be used to identify targets for subsequent artillery fire, cruise missile launches or air strikes. The astral operator can also adjust the fire as a forward observer would do in the more conventional sense. The updated targeting data is passed through channels in order to disguise the source of the intel. It is likely that the controller in these astral ops is also highly psychic and electromagnetic means are used to "boost" the controller's psychic and telepathic abilities to facilitate communication with the astral operator(s) sent to a distant location. The astral operators report that they can clearly "hear" the commands of the controller in their minds. (Documents also confirm that successful experiments have been conducted whereby "voices" can be beamed directly into the brain of a test subject. One of these techniques is known as Radio Hypnotic Intracerebral Control or RHIC.)

Astral operators have been used as psychic "comm links" with other astral operators. For example a number of milabs were used in astral operator mode to search through tunnel systems in Afghanistan to locate "enemy combatants." The military controllers would know precisely where to send these astral operators. (Its clear that the military has detailed knowledge of these tunnel systems since many of them were built by the Saudi Bin Laden Group when Osama Bin Laden was a CIA asset.) At times there would be ten or more astral operators looking for human targets, above ground and below ground. There would be one highly psychic astral operator hovering over the rest of the astral operators. He or she would act as a psychic comm link providing instantaneous feedback to a military controller. In turn the Controller could use this individual to pass on instructions to one or more astral operators involved in the search. The role of this astral operator can be likened to an officer in a command and control helicopter or plane relaying instructions to ground troops below.

One interesting facet of the conditioning and training of certain milabs involved in both physical and astral ops, is the blatant attempt to condition them to regard arabs as “the enemy.” This comes up again and again in “stage managed dreams” and training scenarios involving virtual reality technology. The milab is inculcated with the belief that arabs are hostile. In some of the virtual reality training scenarios they are forced to watch arabs (presumably “terrorists”) perpetrate horrible atrocities. Some milabs are aware of this type of indoctrination and at least in normal waking consciousness, they do not hold any animosity towards arabs or muslims.

I can easily see how a mind controlled milab can be made to believe that he or she is involved in an operation to kill arabs but in reality the “arabs” are not arabs at all. Or perhaps they are arabs but are completely innocent. (According to Dr. Alfred McCoy in his recent book “A Question of Torture: CIA Torture from the Cold War to the War on Terror” a study by a number of Human Rights organizations has determined that the United States has detained approximately 42,000 innocent men for alleged terrorists activities. These innocent men have languished within the global torture center system set up by the CIA and the U.S. Military.)

The Training of Milabs

Milabs are trained in a variety of ways. Oftentimes the milab, as an astral operator, is trained in a virtual environment. The virtual environment is made to simulate as closely as possible, architectural and terrain features that a milab may encounter in a “real world” mission or during an apocalyptic “end times” scenario. Escape, evasion and foraging are constantly recurring themes during the training of certain milabs. Some milabs have been trained to sit in front of their television at home and focus their eyes until they begin to see some kind of cartoon figure like an elephant that no one in the household would be able to see. The milab is told that they may receive messages in this fashion from their controllers at some future unspecified date. Sometimes the training is in their physical bodies. The following story is an example of survival training as related to me by a female milab.

A female milab and her eleven year old milab daughter were placed in the bottom of a large hole by their military controllers. The mother and daughter needed to find a way out. They had to use whatever objects that were available to enable themselves to escape from the hole. The mother encouraged her daughter to think her way through the problem and to not be afraid.

During this training scenario, one of the controllers telepathically spoke into the mother’s mind. The controller would offer encouragement or criticism depending on the performance of the milabs. Afterwards, the adult milab would be debriefed by her controller and advised of what she and her daughter did right and what they did wrong. They are told what they will need to improve upon in order to enhance their chances for survival when the time comes. Resourcefulness and the ability to remain calm in stressful situations are inculcated into milabs. The controller will also impart a sense of urgency into the milab. This urgency is reinforced by numerous “end times” types of “stage-managed dreams” which involve the milab mother and her milab children having to escape from the city in which they live, travel cross-country with or without a vehicle and forage for food. These dreams occur at intermittent intervals.

The mother may be told to continue the training with her daughter in normal waking consciousness. She may be encouraged to develop games to instill these lessons into her child. The mother may take the initiative in this regard by teaching her daughter to climb ropes, prepare survival gear and run obstacle courses. She will remind the child about what to do in certain emergency situations. Sometimes the child will remember the training experiences she had as a milab.

The idea is for the child to see the milab training and the training in normal waking consciousness as part of a continuum and not as separate and distinct lessons. I know one milab mother and her milab children who will become the fastest “looters” prior to the onset of an official “State of National Emergency.” During milab training she and her daughters are made to push a shopping cart through a store that includes food and other items necessary for survival. They are graded on their ability to obtain the right types of provisions in the shortest period of time and before other looters can join in. The milab mother will tell one of her daughters, “okay, you bring back some water, beef jerky, nuts and dried fruit, and you bring back some batteries, warm clothing, extra shoes, vitamins and medicine” as an example. During one such training scenario, the daughters came back with cosmetics! The mother scolded them for not looting properly.

During normal waking consciousness the mother will periodically remind her daughters to ensure their “survival backpacks” are ready to go and they know when and where to go in case of an emergency. To ensure compliance milab controllers have shown milab mothers futuristic scenes through virtual reality technology which depict american girls being rounded up during a State of National Emergency and sold off as sex slaves. This has been done on a covert level in the United States for many years and has been going on at a tremendous scale in Eastern Europe, Southeastern Europe, the Ukraine and elsewhere since the dissolution of the U.S.S.R. The controllers tell the milab mothers to cut the hair of their daughters very short and dress them up as boys to give them a better chance of avoiding capture and enslavement. Since there is a worldwide market for young boys I’m not sure what good this will do. The controllers also remind their milabs not to trust their own military. They are referring to the “surface level” military of course. The milabs are told not to go to “emergency shelters” or “community centers” during a state of national emergency because they will be separated from their children and their children will be taken away.

We can infer that the milab controllers themselves believe there will come a time in this country when foreign troops will be called upon to “restore order” and conduct “peace enforcement operations” on behalf of the United Nations due to some contrived New World Order catastrophe be it a “Bird Flu” pandemic (which the U.S. Military’s Northern Command has already prepared for) or another mass killing along the lines of the September 11th attacks. Milabs have also been shown futuristic visions of foreign troops including Russian and former Soviet Bloc troops patrolling American cities and shopping malls. The milab controllers who are preparing the milab mothers for these eventualities are not necessarily doing this for altruistic reasons. The milab controllers are loath to lose the milabs under their control to some other group for whatever reason.

I also suspect that the milab controllers need at least some segment of the surface population to survive if for no other reason than to have an available labor force to do their bidding and the obvious first candidates for survival are milab adults and especially milab children who have latent parapsychical abilities due to their unique DNA. From the standpoint of the military controllers, milabs and milab children are not negligible commodities. They are extremely valuable. Think about it: Even aliens, sometimes several different species of aliens are interested in these people. The aliens, particularly the reptilians and the dracs, must have a good reason for being interested in these milabs.

Perhaps the inclusion of a given number of milabs in an underground “sanctuary” helps to ensure the survival and operational capabilities of the milab controllers themselves. This begs the question: Why train milabs to escape and forage for themselves if the deep black military have the capability of “extracting” them from anywhere on the surface and pulling them into an underground facility via high tech means? Milabs describe again and again how they are instantaneously transported to and from an underground military installation. Perhaps the military controllers believe nuclear weapons may be utilized on the surface and in the atmosphere that would generate electromagnetic pulse waves thus temporarily rendering them incapable of retrieving their milabs from the surface? It has been suggested that one way the New World Order will be brought home to the American people is by setting off a number of portable nuclear devices around the country and blaming terrorists for the atrocities, thus justifying Martial Law and nuclear retaliation against the alleged sponsor of such nuclear attacks i.e. Iran. Indeed contingency plans have already been developed by the U.S. Strategic Command to launch nuclear strikes against Iran in the event of another major “9-11 type event in America.” Also note how Fox News has already announced that Hezbollah will launch nuclear attacks against the United States. This is one option that is definitely on the table for those who want the New World Order to become a reality.

I must stress that the milab training I'm describing in this treatise may only apply to certain milab controllers and the milab group(s) under their control. It is possible that the various milab controller groups may fall under one administrative umbrella. This may be the case if the comments of some of the milab controllers are to be believed. It is just as likely that bureaucratic rivalry and in-fighting exists or will exist between the various groups of milab controllers whether or not they share a common administrative leadership. The one over-riding objective for every deep black intelligence organization is continued survival with as much autonomy and control of human and technological assets as possible. That much being said, every milab controller group I've ever heard of seems to be involved with operations that advance the Globalist New World Order agenda. The picture is further muddled by the fact that certain groups of ETs, space-faring reptilians and Earth-based reptilian groups have an abiding interest in particular milabs and milab family trees. There may be a cosmic tug-of-war going on over certain milabs. This seems to have been the case in a number of instances. The milab controllers are aware that some of the ET groups have installed mind control programs within certain milabs and utilize these milabs as operatives. As we shall see below, there are certain milabs who are trained and utilized by elements of the military that are allied with certain ET groups.

There is a degree of commonality and uniformity in the training that all milabs are given no matter their geographic location or which branch of the military is their primary controllers. Milabs trained by the Air Force in one part of the country, can be merged in training scenarios or actual ops with milabs who live in another part of the country that are trained by the Army or the Navy.

Other training themes involve developing leadership skills. One milab may be assigned the role of a leader. He or she must assign roles and tasks to other survivors in an apocalyptic scenario. Depending on the circumstances, one person may be tasked with foraging for food, and the other may have to find water. The milab is given to understand that the other survivors in these training scenarios may or may not be milabs. This closely mirrors what may happen in "real life" since milabs, even those that train in groups, are often widely separated by geography. A milab may find himself or herself with non-milabs in an apocalyptic scenario. Pragmatism and utilitarianism are stressed. Milabs are told that they must not let sympathy or compassion interfere with their decision making process. Only those people who have useful attributes or expertise should be allowed onto a team. People who are too old, or infirm and who lack any useful skills or knowledge must be left behind.

Milabs who are unable to keep up with other milabs and who frequently fail in their tasks and otherwise perform in a sub par fashion during training may be removed from a group. They will still be used as a milab. They may be assigned to a different group or they may be trained by themselves. It is not uncommon for milabs to recognize other milabs they encounter in a mass milab setting or in a group training scenario involving a number of people.

A “Mass Milab Setting” may involve dozens or hundreds of people, most of whom are other milabs. The settings may include large underground installations some of which are simulated to look like large airports with very long escalators between floors. These “airports” have corporate offices that can be used to medically examine milabs or to perpetrate mind control upon them. Sometimes the personnel at these places wear clothing reminiscent of the uniforms worn by civilian airline crews. This is probably done to mislead the milab into thinking they dreamed of being in an airport the night before.

These places will at times be teeming with milabs. Other times they can be nearly devoid of all other people. Depending on the installation, the milabs may be dressed in civilian clothes or they can be dressed in white or blue backless hospital gowns. Oftentimes they are nude beneath the hospital gowns. Some of the milabs may wear military type uniforms or black/dark blue gore-tex battle dress utilities (BDUs) similar to what special ops units or civilian police SWAT units wear. Underground trams and large unisex restrooms and locker room areas are frequently associated with these large underground installations. Sometimes a female milab may stumble into a bathroom meant for male users or vice versa. There are no private stalls in these bathroom facilities and it is not unusual for a milab to be sitting on a toilet seat alongside other milabs doing the same thing. Some of the abductees brought to these “mass milab settings” may not be “milabs” in the sense that they are trained and utilized on deep black ops. These abductees might be brought in periodically to check for new alien implants, alien nanotechnology, changes in their DNA or some other evidence of alien manipulation.

Some of the installations look like large underground hangers. Some are hospital settings with a number of doctors and nurses present. Besides the milabs, there will be smaller numbers of medical and military personnel. Non-human beings may be seen on occasion in these settings. Some of the installations aren't very large and it is in the latter types of installations that certain milabs are most familiar. These installations can be described as “local” facilities within relatively close geographic proximity to the homes of the milabs brought there. They are brought repeatedly to these installations for training and behavior modification, both in their physical bodies and in their astral bodies. On the other hand milabs from other states can be brought to these “local” facilities whenever necessary.

It's possible that some of these mass milab settings may in actual fact be mass astral operator settings. I believe that milabs are repeatedly brought to certain installations in their astral form to familiarize them with the places. Training is frequently done in the astral state to familiarize the milab not only to the specific environment but also to the tasks they are expected to perform in their dense physical state. Milabs can recognize other milabs from different parts of the country when they are brought together either physically or astrally. This recognition may be state dependant. However, there are milabs who can retain a high degree of conscious awareness during their milab experiences and retain the memories of these experiences.

Sometimes milabs meet each other in “real life” despite the geographic distance that separates them. Milabs can meet on the internet, or a ufo conference. After comparing notes and memories, they realize that they had seen each other in the past during milab ops or training scenarios. They may even know the code name given to the other milab by the controllers. Thereafter they may frequently find themselves in ops and training scenarios together. On the other hand, milabs may meet each other on the internet or at a conference and although their experiences may be similar, they realize they have never been utilized together in an op. Shortly after coming to this realization however, they may start to see each other in milab training and ops. Milab controllers frequently try to mix and match their milabs with milabs under the control of another military group, to see if the two can work well together. This is especially the case where male and female milabs are concerned.

If a male milab and a female milab are being bonded to one another through astral and physical training experiences and the male cannot keep up with the female, the milab controllers will “drop” the male milab and will assign some other suitable male in which the female can work with.

This will be done even if the male and female milabs have developed a relationship with one another in the “real world.” Milabs also describe constant running “dreams” along coastal beach areas and wooded terrain. Sometimes there will be a running track and sometimes there won’t be. The training and ops can involve helicopters, amphibious craft, military vehicles and naval vessels of one sort or another. Above ground Army bases, Air Force bases and Naval installations have all been described by milabs. Underground and undersea installations have also been described by milabs.

Counter-terrorism training involving hostage rescues and retaking passenger planes has been described by milabs. Long distance swimming and underwater swimming with or without breathing apparatus have also been described by milabs. (A commonly reported experience by alien abductees and milabs involves breathing underwater in a glass tank or a large indoor pool. Sometimes this training involves extensive swimming without a breathing rig.) Ocean Liners appear to be another frequently reported environment in which training and indoctrination takes place. The milabs, if operating in a group, will observe and sometimes interact with other people on board the passenger liner. Military personnel in dress uniforms are sometimes described in these scenarios. Civilians on board the ocean liner may be dressed in attire appropriate for social functions. Well tailored suits for the males and evening gowns for the women.

The milabs will be dressed like the latter. They can be left alone for long periods of time and allowed to wander around the ocean liner. Sometimes they are given guest rooms within the ocean liner. Sometimes foreign military personnel and civilian dignitaries have been observed onboard these ships. It is unclear what the ultimate purpose is for these shipboard excursions.

A grey area exist as far as determining whether certain training experiences are conducted in the dense physical state or in the astral state or in the dreamscape. Sometimes the training may be a literal “theater of the mind” wherein the milab is physically sleeping in his bed but a complex and vivid virtual reality scenario is playing out in his or her mind that seemingly involves a lot of physical activity. The milab controllers, like the aliens and reptilians before them, can create extremely vivid “stage managed dreams” within the minds of sleeping people.

Even seasoned milabs with a high degree of conscious awareness and dream lucidity can’t always be sure if a particular training session is in the dense physical state, astral state or if it is a virtual reality scenario.

The confusion is further exacerbated when the milab awakens exhausted as if he or she has been involved in strenuous activity all night long. To further complicate things the physical training is sometimes conducted in a realm that is in a different vibrational frequency and time continuum from “here.” Elements of the deep black military have been able to carve out niches for themselves in for lack of a better term, another dimension. Moreover the milabs frequently report that they spend days in this other realm training and when they are returned, only a few hours have elapsed in this time continuum. Milabs have reported their astonishment at being returned in time to prepare breakfast for their families or drive their children to school in the morning. One moment they are in this other realm, the next moment they are waking up in bed in this realm. This suggests the military has the technological means to operate in more than one realm and can manipulate time. A female milab was told by a scientist in an underground facility that a process of “demolecularization” takes place when the milab is “pulled” out of their bed and brought to an underground facility or to this other realm where some of the training takes place. This demolecularization process is repeated when the milab is returned to their bed. This process brings to mind the “Stargate” movie and related television shows.

The Bonding of Male and Female Milabs

I touched briefly on the training of male and female milabs who work together. Just as in “surface level” clandestine ops, males and females can be made to work effectively with one another. If they have been emotionally bonded to one another, then they will care for each other and be willing to take greater risks for one another. If the female is an unwilling or unwitting party to this, contrived life-threatening situations may arise. After the couple successfully extricates themselves from one or more shared predicaments, the unwitting or unwilling woman may be more likely to accept a leadership role from the man. She may begin to see him as a protector even though she is still suspicious of the man's motives. A psychological profile of the woman would have been developed prior to the op to determine her suitability for this kind of role.

There are times when it is necessary to have a man and woman work under cover as "husband and wife." Posing as a married couple may increase their chances of successfully completing a mission. Working together under such cover may minimize their risk of exposure, enhance their chances for survival and gain them entrée into social settings that would otherwise be unattainable to them were they to operate individually.

There are variations of this concept within the context of deep black milab ops. For example a female milab can be paired off with a male controller. Because she is under mind control, her controller can trigger certain programming cues that would facilitate a sexual response from the female. The controller can also reinforce this notion of sexual submission and sexual subservience by convincing the female milab that she is married to him. Sometimes a female milab may find herself in some hotel in this or another country. If she has been switched into milab operative mode, she can convincingly play the role of a wife.

She may not even have a "speaking part" in these ops. For example, all that may be required of her is to pass through customs and passport control at certain border checkpoints that are already under the control of the same or a friendly intelligence service. There are times when there is little or no verbal communication between milabs and their controllers. Likewise there may be very little dialogue between milabs. If there is, it is usually limited to brief discussions of an operational nature. Dialogue is minimal at best. On the other hand, telepathic communication has been described as well as dialogue in foreign languages that the milab may or may not know in normal waking consciousness.

A male milab may be introduced to a female milab months before they officially meet "on the surface." The following incident actually happened several years ago: The controllers sent a male milab in his astral form to a female milab's bedroom at night. Because she is psychic, she was able to "see" the male milab whereas someone else in the same room would not have been able to see him. The male milab mentioned her by name and implored her to get a good look at him because they will be meeting sometime in the future. This process was repeated on a couple of more occasions. (It is not uncommon for the milab controllers to pair up male and female milabs even though one or both may be married.)

A couple of months later, this female milab, along with a girlfriend, were riding on a greyhound bus from Southern California to Laughlin Nevada. The female milab was explaining to her friend various aspects of the training the military had subjected her to. Her friend, due to the unusual phenomena she had also experienced, believed the female milab's story. Sitting a couple of seats over was a man who was listening intently to what the female milab was saying. Unable to contain himself any longer, the man introduced himself to the two women and confided that he had undergone experiences similar to what the female milab was describing. The female milab recognized the man immediately as the one who kept appearing to her in his astral body. Later, after they had gotten to know one another and established a romantic (and adulterous) relationship, the female milab reminded the male milab of the times he used to visit her astrally prior to their "initial" meeting on board the greyhound bus. The male milab was unable to remember any of his astral visitations with the female milab.

After their meeting on the greyhound bus (which was obviously arranged by their controllers) they began seeing each other in shared milab experiences. They trained with one another on board helicopters over land and over the ocean. They practiced escape and evasion exercises and underwent psychological exercises designed to assess their decision making skills under duress. The male milab had a history of domestic abuse. His previous wife had obtained a restraining order against him for physically abusing her. He had the classic reptilian hybrid features of hooded eyelids, eyes sunk deep into his eye sockets, a prominent ridge over his eyebrows and a "flatness of affect" expression on his face. He couldn't look you in the eye when he spoke to you. Therefore he was the ideal type of milab operative for the military controllers i.e. a male milab who under the right mind control cues and in the proper alter personality would not hesitate to kill another person. (Besides harassment purposes, I believe the electromagnetic "beaming" that some milabs experience is designed to diminish their frontal lobe capacity and make them more impulsive and violence prone.)

The female and male milab made up a milab couple for over a year, during which time their controllers used them in numerous training scenarios and ops. They dated one another until the male milab's abusive and possessive behavior resulted in the female milab breaking off their relationship. The male milab then began calling her and leaving threatening messages. The controllers no longer used them in ops or training together.

Group Training of Milabs

Groups of milabs can be trained and utilized in ops together. Some of the training involves psychological and emotional bonding. Military psychologists have identified a syndrome known as "Primary Group Cohesion." Primary Group Cohesion is the emotional and psychological bonding of individuals within a military unit involved in combat operations. What the military psychologists discovered is that when soldiers bond together in a combat setting they are no longer motivated by abstractions such as patriotism or "the flag."

The soldiers strive to keep one another alive. They look out for each other and take risks for one another.

It seems the milab controllers strive to inculcate this same mindset within milabs they have organized into groups. Milab group members have been placed in emotionally charged training scenarios.

One milab described running up a hill with two female milab friends. They were being pursued by two men wearing dark woodland pattern camouflage uniforms with black ski masks pulled over their faces. They were armed with automatic weapons. The male milab received the telepathic message that the two gunmen are part of a “Serbian Assassination Group.” (This Milab training scenario occurred at the same time that the war in the former Yugoslavia was raging during the Clinton Administration.) As the milabs ran uphill towards a large number of boulders and relative safety, one of the milab women was shot in the head.

The male milab looked down at his close friend and noticed that the top of her head was blown off and was clearly dead. The other female milab was wailing in anguish and wanted to stay with the body of her friend. The male milab knew there was nothing they could do for their friend. (These particular milabs knew each other “on the surface” and were very close friends.) As much as it pained him, he grabbed the surviving female milab by the arm and pulled her up towards the safety of the boulders. A couple of days later, the three milabs spoke on the phone about this training experience. The gal who had her head blown off didn’t remember the experience while the two “survivors” did. (This training exercise was obviously some kind of virtual reality training experience) The two who remember their friend getting killed were emotionally overwrought during the training scenario. The male milab even remembers telling himself over and over during the experience that he hoped it was some kind of training scenario he was involved in and “was not real.”

The lessons were not lost on the three milabs. Milabs must not allow themselves to be killed or captured by “the enemy.” Just as important, if a fellow milab or close friend has been killed or mortally wounded, they must be left behind.

Milabs, either individually or in groups, may be shown advanced technology as part of their training. Indeed some milabs may be tasked with operating advanced human and alien technology at some of these underground installations. As noted previously, some alien abductees and milabs have been trained by aliens to operate alien technology and are able to read alien script. Milabs are sometimes shown non-human beings, genetic mutants and terrestrial or subterranean creatures that are unknown to the surface population. More than one milab has reported encountering fish-like humanoids in cages within an underground installation. Some of these fish-like humanoids can communicate telepathically.

It is possible that some of the “aliens” that milabs have seen in above-ground and underground installations were genetically cloned life forms created by and subservient to the military. Milabs have described “greys” that apparently worked for the military in underground installations. Milabs have been onboard a large craft with a joint human-alien crew and the greys there seemed to be under the control of the human military. Milabs have witnessed human military personnel giving orders to the greys in various settings. Greys have even aided the military in kidnapping milabs out of their homes.

It is possible that the deep black military have somehow obtained the genetic material, technology and know-how to clone non-human life forms. This is not to say that ALL non-human beings observed at these underground installations have been cloned by and are subservient to the military. That is clearly not the case in some installations where it seems the humans and non-human beings are working together. In other installations the non-human beings seem to be in charge of the military. On the other hand, non-human life forms have been described by milabs and civilian and military witnesses as being held in detention in various installations. In one underground installation that I am aware of, the deep black military keeps a certain species of reptilians contained within natural tunnel systems behind a force-field. It is purely speculation on my part but it’s possible that the military had wittingly or unwittingly developed an underground installation within close proximity of an underground reptilian habitat and had to develop a means of keeping those reptilians at bay. Hence the force-field that keeps the reptilians detained within a certain segment of the tunnel systems. This was necessary to prevent the reptilians there from interfering with the military’s work. Yet paradoxically the military personnel at this same underground base have worked in conjunction with some reptilians. This was the same installation mentioned above where the female milab who had just had the reptilian sexual encounter in her home was abducted by the military and subsequently sent on an astral op by to the Persian Gulf.

(I am absolutely convinced that the means exists to clone humans. These cloned humans are “fast-grown” and are put to work by the deep black military. Some of these human clones are highly psychic and have been used as security personnel at joint alien-human underground installations. They have been used to intimidate milabs. At the risk of sounding redundant, these human clones all look alike: They have blonde or sandy brown hair, no facial hair, are square jawed and are tall and physically robust.)

Just as “surface level” operatives like the Special Forces are given lectures about the flora, fauna and wildlife of a given region of the world that they may operate in, certain milabs are shown creatures that inhabit sub-surface regions of the Earth. A group of milabs were shown eel-like creatures that lived in the underground river systems in the southwestern part of the u.s. The instructor advised the milabs on what the creatures habits were and the potential danger they represented. A force field was occasionally used to keep the eel-like creatures at bay while the milabs waded into the shallow part of the river. The milabs were encouraged to telepathically communicate with the creature. Apparently it was a sentient being that could be told that the intentions of the humans were not hostile. Underground river systems and islands in the middle of such rivers have been described as training sites by milabs. These places appear to be natural underground rivers and waterways within huge underground caverns. Not surprisingly some milabs describe the lighting at these types of underground locations as being dim.

I have spoken to numerous milabs who have been used in tests to determine if they can tell the difference between a real alien and a fake alien. Sometimes short people (either children or midgets) are dressed in “grey alien” costumes. Usually the milab is in an altered state of consciousness during these “fake alien presentations” but occasionally the milab would break through the mind control and recognize that the alien was bogus.

One female milab told me that in a mass milab setting outside of some large bathrooms, she saw a “grey alien” standing behind her in line. The female milab noticed the stitching that kept the black eyepieces in place and knew instantly that the alien wasn’t real. This milab continued to act as if she was “zombied out” in order to fool her milab controllers. Holograms depicting reptilian beings and cardboard life-sized replicas of reptilians have also been shown to milabs.

It’s possible the controllers want to determine if the milabs can tell the difference between the real aliens and the fake ones. If a legitimate alien abductee, which is essentially what a milab is, cannot tell the difference between a real and a fake alien, then presumably members of the general population won’t be able to tell the difference either. All of the milabs I spoke to were able to differentiate between the real aliens and the fake ones. In one training exercise, a female milab from the south and a male milab from the southwest were put together in one of these scenarios and actually enjoyed a good laugh because they instantly identified the “greys” as being either children or very short adults dressed in grey costumes. The setting was simulated to look like the courtyard of an apartment complex at night. There were other people there who were barefoot and dressed in night clothes. These people appeared to be mind controlled. In their mind controlled state it’s possible they believed they had undergone an alien abduction, if they remembered the experience at all.

I have spoken to a former member of the U.S. Marine Corps who had a top secret crypto clearance as a member of a Marine headquarters company based at Camp Pendleton in Oceanside California. He was “volunteered” for an assignment. At around 10:00PM at night “Noel” (a pseudonym) was seated on board a bus along with an entire busload of other marines. The bus was in an underground facility beneath Camp Pendleton. The bus was driven along an underground highway. At intervals of about two hours, the bus would reach a checkpoint. Security personnel manning the checkpoint would board the bus and check the passengers off against a passenger manifest attached to a clipboard.

After this security check, the bus was allowed to proceed along this underground highway. The bus never deviated from a straight line. It never turned left or right. The driver just kept driving in a straight line until the bus came to another check point at which point the above security procedure was repeated. Noel and the other marines were wearing the standard marine camouflage uniforms along with the marine “covers” (standard issue cloth covered hats with brims). Noel started to feel groggy and fell asleep. At one point during this journey, he awoke and looked around. He noticed that everyone in the bus, himself included, were now wearing orange jump suits. Another thing that Noel noticed was that all of the other marines appeared to be in a “zombied out state.” After a period of time during which Noel was lapsing in and out of consciousness, he again awoke to find that everyone around him were still wearing the orange jumpsuits except now instead of normal faces, the marines looked like grey aliens! The alien-headed marines all stared straight ahead. Noel lapsed once again into unconsciousness.

Finally the bus began ascending an uphill gradient and wound up back on the surface. Noel awoke at this point. The bus parked alongside a large hanger. It was still dark out. Every one of the marines appeared normal. They were wearing the standard marine camouflage uniforms they had started out with and everyone appeared human. The marines were ordered off the bus and security personnel once again checked off the passengers against a passenger manifest. They lined up outside this hanger and were told they had to go inside. The hanger doors were opened. An intense blue light poured out from within the hanger and at that point, Noel doesn't have any further recollection of what happened that night. After Noel related this story to me, he recalled how his father had admonished him to never volunteer for anything while in the military. Noel told me that he never volunteered for this particular mission. He believed he was chosen for this mind control operation because he had a top secret crypto clearance. I believe it was more likely he was chosen because he was an alien abductee and his security clearance was only a secondary factor. I have known of cases where dozens of U.S. Army personnel were given injections prior to being taken into an underground facility beneath the army fort they were based at.

Tasks assigned to milabs

As stated above, certain milabs are given tasks and jobs within underground installations which make full use of their particular aptitudes, job skills and specialties on the surface. A female milab with experience in the biomedical field had been given a tour deep beneath an underground facility by a tall alien. She was shown a biomedical laboratory. The milab noticed there were a number of human scientists and technicians in this lab. She was told by the tall alien that she would one day be working in this facility. This particular female milab has been used in a variety of milab ops over the years.

Another female milab who is retired has been used as a technician in what amounts to a Level 5 Germ Warfare Laboratory in an underground facility in the Southwest. She has been drugged and debriefed by high ranking and famous American government personnel. Certain milabs that are proficient in computers have been given tasks that involve working with computers systems. Milabs with medical experience have been given roles as nurses and medical assistants. Both male and female milabs have been used in assassinations and covert ops. Milabs have been used as bodyguards and escorts of people being brought across international borders. Milabs have been given weapons training.

A female milab told me that during her stint in the U.S. Air Force she was used in a mind controlled state in a photo lab at Norton Air Force Base. In all likelihood she was used to develop still and motion picture films of UFOs. For many years Norton AFB was the home of the Air Force's Audio-Visual Command. Norton AFB is now considered an "inactive" base. "Stacey" never remembered actually working at the photo lab. She only remembered leaving her apartment off base and then coming back home but never actually working in the photo lab. This went on for some time. At one point she was befriended by an older man who was regarded by her fellow air force colleagues as a member of the infamous Air Force Office Of Special Investigations (A.F.O.S.I. or more commonly known as O.S.I.). Her colleagues warned her to stay away from this man as he was a spook.

Stacey recalled being flown into what she believed to be Area 51, onboard a helicopter at night. She was accompanied by Air Force Security Personnel. After she got off the helicopter, she was made to lie down on a certain spot on the dry lake bed. She suddenly felt a sensation of swift movement and realized that the dry lake beneath her was moving. She wound up at another part of the desert base. It was as if a section of the dry lake bed had suddenly, through some mechanical means, shifted to a different part of Area 51. (I've spoken to former military personnel who have described to me parking lot sized lots enclosed by cyclone fences that act as huge elevators that descend to underground facilities).

On another occasion Stacey recalled being flown into a jungle airstrip (this was in the mid 1970s) that suddenly opened up from beneath the jungle canopy. She believed she was taken to Southeast Asia but doesn't know exactly where she was or what she did when she got there. After she was discharged from the Air Force, a man claiming to be with the National Security Agency tried to recruit her. This man who called himself "John" told her that she and some of her female co-workers were needed to telephone certain arabs living in the United States and to say certain phrases to them over the phone. (Stacey was working as a stripper in a nude strip club at the time). These phrases would then trigger the arabs into “switching” personalities whereupon they would then commit acts of violence and terrorism within the country. This was in the mid 1990s.

John also told her that a number of Iraqis were allowed into the country and that some of them had vials of anthrax sewn into their abdominal cavities. These Iraqis were apparently let into this country after the first annihilation of Iraq under President George H.W. Bush. (Something like this could never happen on a real planet: You invade a country and annihilate its people and then allow a large number of that country’s military intelligence and special operations personnel who survived the onslaught into the very country that did the annihilating?) These Iraqis, many of them with operational experience since before the eight year long Iran-Iraq war, were brought into this country by various U.S. Intelligence Agencies. It must be remembered that there were Iraqis involved with the patsy Timothy McVeigh before, during and after the attack on the Alfred P. Murrah Federal building in Oklahoma City. Motel registration records showing that McVeigh had rented a room with Iraqis had been confiscated by Federal Agents.

That’s just food for thought when considering the statements this “John” character had made to Stacey the milab. Whether or not John was being truthful is open to question. Professional intelligence people lie for a living.

Non-Human Handlers of Milabs

I have met milabs who claim that the being or beings responsible for their training were non-humans. In some instances, the trainers were shape-shifting reptilians. The training occurred in underground installations and on secure above-ground reservations where U.S. military personnel were present. “Ruby” the military’s code name for a female milab from the southern United States, has described to me the anti-terrorist training she has received. Ruby has been used in training and ops with other milabs from different parts of the country. On one occasion I was on the phone with Ruby as part of a three way call with another milab making up the third party. During our phone conversation, we all heard a phone ring on the line that we shared. We asked each other if we had made another phone call on an extra line. None of us had. I couldn’t have if I wanted to because both of my lines were already being used.

After a couple of rings, the phone was answered and it was a fourth milab that we had just been talking about! This fourth milab, a woman from the southwest named “Angelina”, had been used in training and ops with Ruby. After we got over the surprise of the unexpected phone call (obviously arranged by the deep black military that controls these milabs) Angelina and Ruby began talking. Ruby told me during this four way conversation that she was starting to “trance out” merely by listening to Angelina’s voice since the only times they have met and interacted with one another was during these military training scenarios.

Ruby told me that her primary military trainer “Mike” was a Caucasian male who spoke English with a European accent. Mike wore a military uniform. At various times during the training, Mike would suddenly shape-shift into a reptilian. This usually happened when he was angry or agitated about Ruby’s performance or level of effort during the training. Ruby is an example of someone with legitimate alien abduction experiences who was also a survivor of Satanic Ritual Abuse. She had seen the dreaded Men In Black and had noticed how they shape-shifted into reptilians after she had banished them from her presence in the Name of Jesus Christ. She says that a swirling vortex appeared behind the MiBs/Reptilians. The reptilians were sucked into the vortex and then the vortex closed up. This experience with the MiBs occurred in her bedroom.

Ruby was trained to storm a grounded airliner and shoot at pop-up silhouettes simulating “terrorists.” She was trained in automatic weapons and nine millimeter pistols. She was trained to aim for the “center mass” i.e. the chest area as well as perform “double-taps” which are two rapidly fired rounds into the forehead of the target. I once asked Ruby, “when you’re walking down the aisle of a supermarket, do you ever get the urge to draw down with an imaginary pistol and aim it at the other shoppers?” and she replied emphatically, “Oh yes! All the time!”

One commonality I’ve observed with female milabs who have been trained in combat operations is that they share a pugnacious attitude towards anyone or anything they perceive to be an enemy. They can present the most demure and pleasant demeanor but when they get angry at someone or something, their mindset switches to that of a trained operative. The aforementioned Stacey once tried to stab a drac with a wooden knife. This occurred after Stacey had left the Air Force. She was working at a factory in Southern California when a drac manifested behind her. Stacey used a wooden knife in her job. She automatically reacted by spinning on her heels and lunging towards the rib cage area of the drac with the wooden knife. She did this without any fear or hesitation. “It appeared behind me, I spun around and went in.” She said. The drac immediately disappeared.

The aforementioned Angelina used to play paint ball with her unsuspecting co-workers who had no idea of the extreme training she had endured. Angelina had no qualms about getting down and dirty and showed absolutely no mercy towards her male friends when they got within paint ball range. Her endurance and tolerance for pain and discomfort astounded the other paint ball warriors. She has no patience for males who display indecision or weakness.

I know of another female milab who has been trained in what appears to be a younger cloned body. This woman has been kidnapped and debriefed by the military. Her training, by her own account, is managed by reptilians and greys. She uses advanced weaponry in these training exercises and has been trained since childhood to fly a particular type of alien craft.

One shouldn't get the impression that humans are the only intended victims of this combat training. I know of one young man who as a teenager had very vivid training dreams where he has blasted reptilians with some sort of portable directed energy weapon. There is no question in my mind that the controllers, be they human military or non-human, have trained a number of abductees to prepare and fight in some future war. A war that may not necessarily be limited to the Planet Earth.

Off World Bases?

There have been persistent rumors that the deep black military in conjunction with deep black elements of the aerospace community have established a base or bases elsewhere in this solar system. The most commonly reported location is the planet Mars, both on the surface and beneath the surface. Milabs have on occasion been told of a base on Mars. Some milabs report that they have been taken there and been given a tour of some of the facilities.

According to the testimony of some of these milabs who believe they have been taken there, there are subsurface and surface bases on Mars. It is possible that the surface installations were originally of alien construction. According to one highly respected abduction researcher, there is a reptilian base in Mars. Abductees and milabs have reported alien bases elsewhere in the solar system. The Moon has been identified as the location of an alien base.

Milabs and Monarchs

There are commonalities and differences between Milabs and Monarch mind control survivors (hereafter referred to simply as "monarchs.") Since the drac-reptilian hybrid influence is so pervasive, many female milabs have been molested as young children and have developed a dissociative ability as a result. As we have seen, this dissociative ability became the basis for certain forms of mind control and was then exploited by military mind controllers in order to advance certain agendas. The military has even sent in pedophiles to develop a relationship with a mother so the pedophile can gain access to the milab (or soon to be milab) children, in order to sexually abuse them. Many children born or taken into the Monarch program will also have been severely abused at an early age and have developed dissociation. Indeed systematic horrendous physical, sexual and satanic abuse meted out to young children seems to be part and parcel of the Monarch program. This sadistic behavior satisfies the predatory impulses of the perpetrators and further fragments the minds of the young children. Some milabs may have endured satanic ritual abuse when they were children but it is not a constant theme of their lives, unlike many monarchs who may be exploited and manipulated by satanic cults well into adulthood.

As mentioned above, some milab children have never received physical or sexual abuse but they may have endured some kind of externally imposed childhood trauma. The end-result of this anomalous trauma is once again, a dissociative identity disorder within the child that is exploited and expanded upon by military mind controllers.

There are differences between milabs and monarchs. Although there are similarities in training methods, milabs and monarchs are used in different ways. Monarchs tend to be used in ops that involve a blatant new world order agenda, whereas the ops milabs are used in may not appear to be related to the New World Order agenda at first blush. Sometimes high profile government personnel are involved in ops involving milabs and monarchs. This is something that is far more commonly reported by monarchs. One female monarch I know who I'll call "Trisha" (and who bears a striking resemblance to the "Krista" character in "Blade: The Series") has had a number of experiences with former President Bill Clinton. When she has been used as an escort for Bill Clinton, Trisha is made to wear elegant and expensive dresses and gaudy diamond necklaces. When used in black ops, Trisha has found herself dressed in black gore-tex at an unknown airbase or in a helo over jungle terrain she believed to be in South America. She has memories of escaping from the estate of a South American drug lord after pulling off some covert op. She has had legitimate alien abduction experiences and numerous ufo sightings but nevertheless, based on what I know of her case (which is quite a lot) I would classify her as a monarch survivor rather than a milab.

Trisha has been used against her will in pornography films. This is not something that only female monarchs have had to endure. I've spoken to three different female milabs that believe they have been used in pornographic films whilst in a mind controlled state.

(Trisha made the mistake of giving her private journal to Mark Philips at a Survival Expo Conference in Las Vegas several years ago and has never gotten her journal back. This journal provided details of military and satanic activity in the small California town in which she grew up. I believe Cathy O'brien is a legitimate monarch but I also believe Mark Philips is still "on a leash." The information provided by Philips regarding Project Monarch is yet another example of a "controlled leak" since it will never be taken seriously by the corporate media.

Moreover, Philips has emerged as “the savior” to many monarchs who are breaking programming and it is to him that they go to seek guidance and support, never realizing until it is too late that Philips may still be working for the other side. I believe this was the intended result of his “escaping” with Cathy O’Brien. Within the context of counterintelligence ops you sometimes have to give up something in order to net a greater return at some future date. The Roswell case is another example of a controlled leak since it will never be taken seriously by the corporate media and academic community. One outcome of the Roswell case is that it established the “bona fides of Kevin Randle within the UFO Research Community. Randle has since emerged, along with his partner Russ Estes, as an arch debunker of alien abductions. Go figure.)

Female milabs and female monarchs have both reported encounters with reptilians and with humans shapeshifting into reptilians. (The phenomenon known as “shapeshifting” was well known long before David Icke’s seminal works on the subject. Some of the earliest reported instances of shapeshifting involved not humans but “nordic” aliens shapeshifting into reptilians. Reptilians have also been known to disguise themselves as “tall greys” and even human military personnel.) Milabs tend to have more experiences with Greys, Nordics, Insectoids and other types of aliens as compared to monarchs. Milabs have been used by both aliens and their military controllers to operate complex technology. Some milabs can even operate certain types of alien craft.

As is the case with some monarchs, certain milabs can, whilst in an altered state, speak foreign even “angelic” languages like Enochian. Whereas most male monarchs have endured horrendous sexual abuse dating back to their childhoods, many male milabs appear not to have been sexually abused as children.

Deciding who is a milab and who is a monarch is perhaps, a subjective thing. Some believe that it is a pointless exercise and is “splitting hairs.” To me and the many milabs I know, there is a difference. Without exception, all the milabs I know have the utmost compassion and respect for monarchs. There seems to be a number of milabs and monarchs who are consciously striving to advance the new world order agenda. Within the ufo and mind control research community, there exists certain individuals who have made blatant efforts to disrupt the research efforts of others. One such individual is Kurt Billings whom I interviewed once on the radio.

I couldn’t trust Kurt Billings as far as I could throw him but I interviewed him anyway at the request of a friend who didn’t really know much about him. During the interview, Billings drew my ire when he tried to debunk the concept of shapeshifting, which any alien abduction researcher worth his or her salt knows is a real phenomenon. Billings kept talking about “hand signals” given to Arizona Wilder during her interview with David Icke on the “Revelations of a Mother Goddess” video but Billings was just blowing smoke. I’ve watched that interview numerous times and there is absolutely no evidence to indicate that Icke was doing anything to hypnotically manipulate Arizona Wilder. At a ufo conference in the East Coast, Billings began a whispering campaign against a colleague of mine who was a scheduled speaker and managed to turn a few of the other researchers against my colleague. Billings actually did me a favor because I've lost whatever respect I had for those individuals who Billings had manipulated into disrespecting my colleague. Even within the ufo and mind control research communities, there are some people who are absolutely incapable of independent thought and are thus putty in the hands of disrupters like Kurt Billings.

As stated above there are many milabs who work in a laboratory setting, as scientists, chemists, lab technicians and the like when they are in a mind controlled state. The backgrounds of milabs run the gamut from having had no family connection to the military and aerospace community to those having family members on both sides involved with NASA, the Military, the CIA, and aerospace corporations like Lockheed.

In summation, there are commonalities and differences between milabs and monarchs. But milabs tend to be involved in much more "high tech" ops that at times involve non-human beings, super-advanced technology, and time travel. Milab controllers have the marked ability to instantaneously seize milabs and bring them to a remote location anywhere in the world. Milabs can train endlessly for days on end in another aspect of space/time and be returned back to their homes and only a few hours would have passed in this aspect of space/time. Milab controllers don't have to use dissociative techniques such as the "splintering of the splinters" mentioned above to gain control of a milab's consciousness. The military controllers are aware of the mind control exerted upon milabs by aliens.

At times the same techniques (however sadistic) may be used on both milabs and monarchs. Hence the torture and sexual abuse reported by a number of female milabs. It is not an "either-or" thing. There are some grey areas and perhaps some degree of enmeshment and overlap between the two types of programs. There are some milabs who have endured much childhood sexual abuse and even satanic ritual abuse well into adulthood but I would still classify them as milabs. On the other hand, there are individuals like "Trisha" who has had numerous alien encounters but the overall nature of her experiences would lead me to classify her as a monarch. For both milabs and monarchs, bloodline and genetics holds the key to understanding why they experience the things that they do. There is a spiritual and supernatural component to the bloodlines and genetics of both milabs and monarchs which make them of supreme interest not only to the deep black human controllers, but to the dracs and reptilians who are ultimately in control of this planet.

What can milabs do about this?

Most milabs have been manipulated from birth. I know of at least two cases where the mother of milab children had a relationship with an active duty navy man who was a pedophile. This relationship was arranged so that the pedophile would have access to the young daughters and/or sons of the woman. The children would then be subjected to chronic sexual abuse and dissociation would result. This opened the doors for mind control programs to be installed in the children. It is likely that similar ploys using pedophiles from other branches of the military have been used to access a woman's children. There have been cases where young children who were the dependants of active duty military personnel were made to have epileptic seizures in order for the children to be manipulated and mind controlled at military hospitals. The unsuspecting parents would take these children to these military hospitals believing that their children would receive the best care possible when in actuality, the children were being mind controlled at these places. Other places where milabs have been trained, mind controlled and medically experimented upon include underground installations, above ground military installations, certain college universities and well known civilian hospitals.

A disturbing trend has emerged in which some milabs have become afflicted with debilitating and potentially fatal illnesses. This is in addition to the chronic back pain that may develop from the physical and sexual abuse given to some female milabs. Cancers of various types including brain cancer, have been reported. Are these chronic and sometimes fatal diseases a by-product of the milabs being exposed to high energy fields and toxins? Are the illnesses the result of the incessant and intrusive medical procedures that certain milabs receive? Or are the milab controllers "rolling up" some of their assets by inflicting these diseases upon milabs and hoping that whatever memories and secrets they have will die with them? Do the milab handlers feel that certain milabs have outlived their usefulness? One can only speculate. I know that some milabs have been treated and cured of serious illnesses by their handlers through technology and treatments that are not allowed on the surface. But were those diseases and ailments the result of being manipulated and used in the first place?

In all fairness I must add that some milabs report having a kinship with their controllers. These milabs feel that the controllers have been protective towards them and solicitous of their health and well being. Certain military groups have behaved with a remarkable degree of leniency towards their milabs. On the other hand, there are branches of the military which are notorious for their brutish and sadistic treatment of milabs. Of course we can't forget that all milabs started out as unwilling participants in these programs. Sometimes the controllers start off the training being abusive and sadistic towards the milab. Later the nature of the relationship changes and the controllers become friendlier. Perhaps it's the carrot and stick approach. It also seems that in the case of certain milabs, there may be more than one military controller group involved.

Perhaps it's just a case of some essentially good people (who may have slipped through the cracks) that work in these milab programs expressing concern for another person. Medical personnel, in particular nurses, have been described as being friendly. For some reason certain milabs are given more information than others.

One female milab reported being raped by a military controller. She was picked up by military personnel dressed in civilian clothes and driven in a van to an office building in her home town. This office building turned out to be the local Federal Building where a number of federal agencies made their home. She was then raped by a military officer she had seen during the course of her milab training in a nearby underground base. She was later told by another military person that the offender was punished and was no longer working in that program. Prior to that experience, this female milab was gang raped by military personnel in the underground base. During this horrendous gang rape experience, she was reminded by one of the military personnel present to dissociate like she did as a child when she was being molested by her step-father. (This was one of the milabs mentioned above whose mother dated and eventually married a navy pedophile.) The female milab is reminded that this dissociative ability exist within her so that in the event of another gang rape of her "on the surface" by other military personnel, rather than slip into a protective madness, she can simply dissociate and leave her body.

There have been cases of the controllers helping the milabs with finances and in obtaining employment and housing for them. One female milab has told me that she was given considerable help from a mysterious correspondent who always seemed to know when she was in dire financial straights. Just when she needed it most, a colored envelope containing money would arrive from this man. The letters apparently came from Texas. Controllers have also warned milabs about possible future accidents or mishaps.

Based on the anecdotal testimony of certain milabs it appears that some of the milab controller organizations have the ability to see into the future. One female milab was shown what would happen to her if she took a particular route while driving. In the possible future/virtual reality scene that was presented to her, she saw that she would be confronted by a large mud puddle in the middle of a road. This was during a period of heavy rainfall which caused flooding, mudslides and the creation of sink-holes in some of the roads in her part of the country. This was a possible future event: If she drove into this mud puddle the car would sink up to its door handles in mud. She was warned by a military person speaking in her mind to turn around and go in the opposite direction if she came across the same or a similar mud puddle.

The very next day, the female milab was driving around her town and was confronted by a mud puddle on the road. Her children were in the car with her.

Remembering the future vision she had been shown by her military handlers, she reversed her car and executed a three-point turn. Meanwhile a column of cars had formed behind her car. Angry and impatient motorists were honking their horns and yelling rude comments like “What are you doing you stupid bitch?!” After she executed the three-point turn she pulled off to the side of the road and watched as the other motorists drove by. Some of them were “giving her the finger” as they drove past. The first two cars quickly sank in the mud up to their door handles, just as she had been shown in the virtual reality. The two drivers who were haranguing her earlier about backing her car up were now imploring her to use her cell phone to call for help. The female milab yelled back “so who is the stupid bitch now?”

Milabs have been warned about getting involved with certain ufo researchers. The milabs were told that a particular ufo researcher was untrustworthy or in some cases was actually under mind control and was working unwittingly towards an agenda set forth by his or her controllers.

It may be desirable, from the deep black military standpoint, that at least some milabs survive the coming cataclysms on the surface. The cards have been stacked against milabs. In my opinion the deep black operations involving aliens, alien technology and milabs are the most secretive operations on this planet. Milabs don't have to infiltrate such operations. They are already in them. So milabs might as well try to make the best of the situation. The great Chinese Military Philosopher Sun Tzu believed in turning weaknesses into strengths.

In my considered opinion, milabs stand the best chance of surviving the coming and inevitable cataclysms on the surface, manmade and natural, compared to the rest of the surface population. If milabs can access those parts of their mind where knowledge and technical know-how is stored, it will immeasurably enhance their chances of survival.

It is important that milabs don't succumb to the standard psyops that are being utilized against the American public. Many Americans can care less about the genocide meted out to the Lebanese people and the Palestinians in the West Bank and Gaza Strip. To many Americans, arabs and muslims have become the “undifferentiated demonic other” and hence deserve to be completely exterminated. The American public is oblivious of the fact that American snipers are shooting unarmed civilians in Baghdad and throughout Iraq for no reason at all. Ambulances are being targeted by American forces. These are unpleasant facts but they are happening. Americans need to arm themselves with knowledge. Anyone with a library card or access to the internet can confirm these unpleasant facts. Iraqis are subject to homes invasions by American troops and having their possessions looted and ransacked. Countless Iraqi women have been detained illegally and raped. Iraqi males have been detained and tortured for no good reason. Last but certainly not least, there has been a deliberate policy to stir up a hornets nest of sectarian violence. The old tried and true method of “divide and conquer” has been utilized pitting Sunnis against Shias. I highly recommend the book “Baghdad Burning: Girl Blog From Iraq” by an Iraqi woman known only as “Riverbend.” This book is a collection of daily blog entries written by an Iraqi female blogger who describes daily life in Baghdad under military occupation. What she describes can one day be a reality for millions of Americans: Lack of electricity; Lack of running water; Harrasment from occupation forces; Neighbors and friends being shot at merely for being at the wrong place at the wrong time and gang violence. This already happened in New Orleans in the aftermath of Hurricane Katrina.

Some milabs have been conditioned to feel hatred and hostility towards arabs and muslims. Milabs, like all segments of society, must arm themselves with the facts. I cannot stress this enough. Hamas was a creation of Shin Bet, the Israeli Internal Security Service. No less an authority than former U.S. Ambassador to Saudi Arabia Charles Freeman has stated this for the record. Shin Bet used Hamas to factionalize and Islamicize the PLO in the West Bank and Gaza. Financed and armed by Shin Bet, Hamas attacked Yassar Arafat’s Al-Fatah organization in the West Bank and Gaza. It must be remembered that the PLO is largely a secular organization. Its goal of an independent Palestinian State ran counter to Hamas’ desires for a pan-islamic theologically oriented Middle East. Hamas was the best thing that ever happened to the Likud Bloc of the Israeli government.

Hamas itself was spawned from the Muslim Brotherhood which for many years has served U.S., Israeli and Jordanian interest. The U.S. has used the Muslim Brotherhood to destabilize Nasser’s regime in the late 1950s. The U.S. also used the Muslim Brotherhood and its various off-shoots (including the dreaded Al-Qaeda) to destabilize the former Soviet Union’s Central Asian Republics. The Israelis used the Muslim Brotherhood to commit acts of terrorism against the Assad regime in Syria. The Jordanians used the Muslim Brotherhood for the same purpose. During the Lebanese Civil War, the Israelis used the Muslim Brotherhood against the PLO in Lebanon.

Fomenting Muslim unrest in what former National Security Advisor Zbigniew Brzezinski referred to as “The Arc of Islam” along the southern border of the former Soviet Union was part and parcel of the strategy to manipulate the Soviets into invading Afghanistan. It is an established fact that the CIA, the Saudi Intelligence Service, the Pakistani Interservices Intelligence (I.S.I.), the Jordanian Army and Intelligence Service, the Egyptian Army and Intelligence Service and Communist China’s Peoples Liberation Army and Military Intelligence Service known as the Er Bu, have all played a role in training and arming thousands of militant muslims to fight against the Soviets in Afghanistan and in Chechnaya.

(These thousands of battle hardened “jihadist” are ready made patsies for any and all “terrorists” atrocities anywhere in the world. It is a supreme irony to me that U.S. Special Operations Forces are chasing after Al-Qaeda and Chechayan Muslims in Afghanistan when many of these same “terrorists” were trained by U.S. Army Special Forces and U.S. Naval Special Warfare personnel during the Soviet Occupation of Afghanistan. Anyone with a library card can confirm this for themselves. There are countless people within the U.S. Military that are absolutely incapable of independent thought.)

Major western financial institutions like Chase, Goldman Sachs, and Citibank just to name a few have provided financial experts, technicians and computer equipment which modernized the Islamic banking system, thus turning “Economic Islam” into a modern day power. Economic Islam makes up the triad of western sponsored Islamism: Political Islam, Militant Islam and Economic Islam. All have been nurtured and sponsored by Western (read U.S., British and Israeli) governments for purposes that are only now becoming clear. These are all easily confirmable facts.

Now we are being told that Hezbolla and Al-Qaeda are allies. This is patently absurd. Iran, which sponsors Hezbollah, a Shia organization, has for many years sponsored Shia terrorist activities against Saudi interest. In return the Saudis have utilized militant Sunni and in particular Wahhabist terrorists against Iranian interest. Iran has evinced an anti-Taliban and hence anti-Saudi and anti-Pakistani attitude for many years. This is due in part to the Taliban’s persecution of Shias in Afghanistan during the U.S. supported reign of the Taliban. Wahhabism is the extremely militant form of Sunni Islam which originated in Saudi Arabia. The Saudis and the Pakistanis to name just two, want no part of Iran’s Shia fundamentalism. But to most Americans, heavily indoctrinated and propagandized by the so-called school system and the corporate media, all muslims are perceived as the “undifferentiated demonic other.” Most Americans think of all arabs and muslims as the same: Just a bunch of raghead terrorists.

A milab can be forgiven for being compelled to act out against muslims whilst in a mind controlled state. After all, he or she is not in their right state of mind. But during their normal waking consciousness they cannot and must not succumb to this very basic form of public brainwashing. I have known milabs, some quite intelligent ones, who become extremely militant the moment the war drums begin beating and the corporate media begins the bullfrogs chorus for war. These milabs should know better but they still fall into this externally imposed mindset.

If and when martial law is imposed upon America and all hell is breaking loose, milabs must retain their integrity and moral conscience. Just because others, especially foreign troops are raping and murdering our citizens, it doesn’t give milabs the right to do the same thing. It is our nobility of spirit which separates humans from the lower orders of beings.

It gives one pause for thought when you consider which countries are America's NATO and United Nations allies. Turkey is an ally and it was Turkish troops who committed genocide against the Armenian people in 1915. At least a million Armenians were slaughtered. In addition the Turks have wiped out thousands of Kurds over the years. In 1971 the Pakistani Army committed a rape/genocide in East Pakistan, now known as Bangladesh, which resulted in the murders of anywhere from one million to three million innocent people. It would come as no surprise to me to one day find Turkish and Pakistani troops patrolling American streets and conducting "peace enforcement" operations on behalf of the United Nations. Some of the Pakistani troops currently involved in the United Nations ops in the Democratic Republic of the Congo have been involved in sexually enslaving Congolese women and young girls. DynCorp, hired by the U.S. State Department, is a privatized military/security firm that has been implicated in the wholesale capture and sexual enslavement of literally hundreds of thousands of women and young girls in Southeastern Europe during and after the Balkans conflict. United Nations troops in the Balkans known by the oxymoronic "United Nations Protection Force" or UNPROFOR have been involved in the sexual enslavement of women and young girls in the Balkans as well. Remember that some milab controllers have warned milabs to not trust their own military. This is the kind of environment and the types of atrocities we can expect in America in the aftermath of a State Of National Emergency.

Milabs can and will survive the coming state of National Emergency in this country. Just keep your wits about you. Attach yourselves to people who can retain their composure in the most dire of circumstances. Stock up with food and water. Do not, I repeat, do not go to any "community centers" and "emergency centers" established at public schools and other places during a period of civil unrest or national emergency. That will be a one way trip. I highly recommend the book "The SAS Survival Handbook: How to survive in the wild, in any climate, on land or at sea" by former British SAS Survival Instructor John "Lofty" Wiseman. Watch "Survivorman" on Discovery Science channel. This program features a survival expert showing the different ways a human being can survive in various environments. Some female milabs make ideal leaders so male milabs shouldn't let their egos get in the way of their survival.

I have purposely withheld a lot of information about milabs. The reason I have done so is because the primary purpose for writing this treatise is to ensure that at least some of the milabs out there know that they are not alone and that they stand a good chance of surviving what is to befall this country. There is some information which if released will jeopardize the safety and security of milabs and that I will never do.

This treatise is dedicated to the memory of Marianne Clavet. Marianne was a friend and research colleague of the late Dr. Karla Turner. Marianne was a protégé of Barbara Bartholic. She was a dear friend to me and a number of others who conduct this kind of research. Marianne was an abductee and a milab. She was a true spiritual warrior and I cherish the memory of her every day. Her last name of Clavet means “Keeper of the keys to knowledge” which is very apt. Her bravery and courage will serve as an inspiration to all of us who carry on this work.

This treatise is also dedicated to the memory of Charlotte Boudreaux. Charlotte was a friend of Marianne Clavet and a confidant to Barbara Bartholic. Charlotte was an alien abductee and milab who was forced to endure extremely painful medical experimentation by the military.
